--- SEE OFFICE ACTION ON THE FOLLOWING PAGES ---

1. Claims 1-4 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. § 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

3. Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) as being anticipated by Adamchick patent no. 5,761,668.

4. As to claim 1, Adamchick teaches the invention substantially as claimed, comprising:

a computer readable memory storage medium, said medium storing a plurality of date files, each said date file having 6 integers [ab; six numeric characters, 221-226 of fig. 2; col. 4, lines 54-63] and comprising:

a 4 digit decimal year represented in a first three integer form [221, 222, and 223 of fig. 2], the last two of said first three said integers representing the last two digits of the 4 digit decimal year [222 and 223 of fig. 2], the first of said first three said integers representing a designated century [C 221 of fig. 2]; and a 3 digit decimal day represented in a second three integer form, said second three integers representing a day of a year [224, 225, and 226 of fig. 2]; whereupon addition to or subtraction of at least two of said plurality of date files, the respective sums and differences can be computed and maintained after year 1999 [Millennium Date, col. 4, lines 64 to col. 5, lines 18]; and a central processing unit for carrying out said addition and said subtraction operations [inherent in the computer system for carrying out the operation in col. 6, lines 4-60].

5. As to claim 3, it is similar to claim 1; therefore, it is rejected under the same rationale.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over Adamchick patent no. 5,761,668.

8. As to claim 2, Adamchick teaches the invention substantially as claimed, with the exception of teaching that the integer 1 represents the 19th Century, the integer 2 represents the 20th Century, the integer 3 represents the 21st Century, the integer 4 represents the 22nd Century, the integer 5 represents the 23rd Century, the integer 6 represents the 24th Century, the integer 7 represents the 25th Century, the integer 8 represents the 26th Century, and the integer 9 represents the 27th Century.

However, since Adamchick teaches that said first of said first three said integers representing a designated century are selected from the group ranging from 0 through 9, and C=0 for 19th century, C=1 for 20th century, C=2 for 21th century, and so forth [col. 5, lines 57 to col. 6, lines 3], it can be understood that selecting from the group ranging from 0 through 9 or from 1 through 9 for representing a century is only a matter of a design choice. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the Data Processing art at the time of the invention to apply this feature in the system in order to indicate the century.

9. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over Adamchick patent no. 5,761,668, in view of Dickens patent no. 5,806,063.

10. As to claim 4, Adamchick teaches the invention substantially as claimed, with the exception of adding said integers of one of said plurality of files to another of said plurality of files to generate a sum, and optionally; whenever necessary, adding 365 to said sum. Dickens explicitly teaches adding said integers of one of said plurality of files to another of said plurality of files to generate a sum [col. 3, lines 13-37; col. 3, lines 24-37];

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the Data Processing art at the time of the invention to combine teachings of Adamchick and Dickens because Dickens' teachings would enhance Mao's teaching by applying the feature in the system in order to detail the step by step means of converting a database program and associated input data in a truncated format
